This week's learning...

In Maths, we will continue to work on key concepts that we found quite tricky during our mock SATs assessments. We will revise and practice so that our knowledge and application is secure.

In Science, having explored the main parts of the heart and their functions, we will move on to drawing a scientific diagram of the heart using an anatomy model.

In our RSHE lessons, we will be looking at using appropriate language to talk about our own and other people's families and looking at how to challenge unconscious bias. We will also be doing our puberty and sex education lessons this week.

In Spanish, we will revise how to pronounce different animals in Spanish And use our knowledge of colours to describe them.
